

DELIVERY OF POOLED TOBACCO BEGINS MONDAY

Members of Burley Co-operative Will Begin Delivering Their Tobacco To Local Market on Monday Morning.

Quite a rush is expected at the local pool warehouses Monday morning when growers, members of the association, begin the delivery of their 1922 crop to the local market.

All arrangements have been completed by Mr. John Breslin, local manager for the Burley and his assistants to handle the crop of Mason county with the greatest speed and ease possible. Plans are exactly as they were last year. Growers are expected to call the office of the pool here and obtain from the management an assignment as to time and place of delivery and every grower is expected to keep his engagement with the management.

While conditions have not been the most satisfactory for preparing the crop for market, it is understood that quite a number have already made ready for delivery and already enough growers have registered to keep the receiving force at the local warehouses busy. Expert graders will be on hand Monday to grade the crop as it is unloaded and the grower-member will receive a receipt immediately showing just exactly how his crop graded.

MONDAY NIGHT'S SHOW IS BENEFIT FOR BAND

John Fox Story To Be Presented at Washington on Monday Evening for Cardinal Band Benefit.

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" holds the breath of the forest and clear, keen mountain breeze. It holds too, the inspiration of strenuous human endeavor. The feuds of the primitive hill people are touched upon lightly and lend virility through the thrilling scenes of Sidney Toler's great play.

The dominant situation is that of romantic love and every scene is written in a manner delightful. Everybody will love Melissy, admire Chad, and enjoy Squire Middleton the old mountain justice of the peace who loved his liquor in court or out. Appears at the Washington theater under the auspices of the Boys' Band next Monday evening.

RUSSELL ESTATE DIVIDED AMONG THE CHILDREN BY WILL

Will of Mrs. M. C. Russell Probated Saturday Afternoon—Mr. R. K. Hoeft Is Named the Executor of Will.

A paper bearing date of August 23, 1910, and purporting to be the last will and testament of Mrs. M. C. Russell, deceased, was produced in the Mason County Court Saturday afternoon. The true execution of the paper was proven by testimony of Clarence Mathews, one of the ntesting witnesses thereto, the signature of Ernie Ort, the other attesting witness, was proven by the testimony of Thomas M. Breen and J. H. Hildebrand.

Under the terms of the will the Christian church of this city will receive $500 and Mrs. Mary Andrews, a sister, $5,000.

The palatial Russel homestead in Third street is bequeathed to her son, Colonel J. Barbour Russell and to offset this in the distribution, Thomas M. Russell is left the sum of $15,000, and the children of the late C. D. Russell are left $15,000.

The residue of the estate is to be divided equally in three parts to be given J. B. Russell, Thomas M. Russell and the children of the late C. D. Russell.

J. Barbour Russell is appointed trustee for the children of his late brother without surety and Mr. R. K. Hoeft is appointed executor of the will without surety on bond.

A codicil to the will bequeaths to her son, J. Barbour Russell, twenty-seven shares of stock in the Bank of Mayville.

LAST OF BURLEY POOL'S TOBACCO WAS SOLD TODAY

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company Saturday at Lexington purchased the balance of the 1921 crop of tobacco held by the Burley Tobacco Co-operative Association. This balance amounted to about three million pounds of the best grade of the weed handled and while the price paid is not announced, it is known that the price was a very good one.

This sale cleans up the entire holdings of the co-operative which will open new with the 1922 crop at their warehouses on next Monday.

WOMAN SUES RAILROAD FOR MAKING HER FAT.

Kansas City, Dec. 9. — A Federal court jury will be asked to determine whether an injury, which Mrs. Lorena Caldwell, 22, asserts she suffered in a Chicago & Alton railroad crash is responsible for the 375 pounds she weighs. She is suing for $50,000 damages. She says that one of the railroad's switch engines struck a motor car in which she was riding, and that an injury to an endocrine gland caused her excessive obesity. She asserts in her petition she weighed 160 pounds at the time of the accident, December 21, 1920.

SLAYER IS ACQUITTED.

Cleveland, Dec. — Sam Picone, 18, was happy today. A jury of five women and seven men had acquitted him of a charge of first degree murder.

Picone was charged with having killed his brother-in-law, Ignazio Bugge. On the witness stand he said he killed Bugge in self-defense after the latter had threatened his father's life.

C. & O. BEGINS EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS AT BRIDGE ST.

Course of Limestone Creek to Be Changed to Protect Railroad Property.

Work was just begun at Bridge street by the C. & O. railroad company this week at making extensive improvements which will probably require a year or more time, if all the reported improvements are made.

The first work to be done, it is learned, is to change the abutment to the Bridge street bridge which for several years has been cracking and crumbling. This abutment will be rebuilt on the West side of the present sidewalk.

The big job will be in changing the course of Limestone to give the creek a straight course through the old Ball property into the Ohio River. This will require much dredging and weeks of work.

It is unofficially reported too that the curve in the company's road bed just east of Limestone creek will be straightened and the viaduct leading from Bridge street to Limestone street will be filled with the earth removed from the old Ball property. This, however, cannot be confirmed by local representatives of the railroad company.

ALIENATION SUIT ENDS IN SMALL DAM- AGE AND INJUNCTION

Sensational Alienation Suit for $20,000 Ends in $5.00 Damages and Tight Restraining Order.

West Union, Ohio. — Government by injunction, which heretofore has been applied principally to labor disputes in large industrial centers of the country, suddenly deviated from its regular pathway and laid the strong, restraining arm of the law upon the social activities of the village of Seamon last Friday, when Judge Will P. Stephenson, in the common pleas court, and acting upon an agreed to entry by the opposing attorneys in the King-Snedeker alienation and damage suit, issued a permanent injunction that is the most sweeping in its scope and the most drastic in its terms and provisions of any previous court order in the history of Adams county, or of the state of Ohio, for that matter.

The injunction part of the court journal entry, drawn by Judge A. Z. Blair, of Portsmouth, attorney for Mrs. King, the plaintiff, is a veritable gem in the restraining line. In the closely woven meshes of its labyrinth of prohibitions, Jessie L. Snedaker, the defendant, is almost denied the privilege of drawing in a breath of the same village air as that inhaled by the plaintiff's husband, Homer King.

Many witnesses and spectators were on hand Friday morning when the sensational case, which has been shaking the social foundations of Seamon for many months, was called for trial, and the action came to a sudden end in the common pleas court when the attorneys informed Judge Stephenson that they had agreed upon an entry, the terms of which rendered the $20,000 damage claim to the sum of $5, but sustained the charges made by Mrs. King in her petition and allowed her the permanent injunction as prayer for by her.

The attorneys for the defendant, while agreeing to the entry, had their exceptions noted to the right of the court to grant any kind of an order of injunction in a case of this character, and gave notice of appeal.

A motion by the defendant for a new trial was heard and overruled by Judge Stephenson, and the case, as to the injunction order, will now go to the district court of appeals.

FUNDS WILL BE NEEDED THIS YEAR FOR TREAT

Business Men Will Again Give Christmas Presents and Candy To Poor Kiddles But Treasury Is Empty.

As was expected, Colonel "Billy" Stockton, who has played Santa Claus to the poor boys and girls of Mayville and vicinity for several years, announces that he is going to do it again.

This Christmas treat is made possible by donations from local business men and it will be remembered that last year there were sufficient funds in the treasury to provide the toys, candies, nuts and fruits but this year the Colonel says the treasury is depleted and it will be necessary for the business men to donate again. Any contribution left with Mr. Stockton or any other member of the business men's committee will find its way into the treasury and help provide a happy Christmas for many.

Arrangements are made to have the distribution this year at the court house on Sunday, December 24th at 2:30 o'clock—the day before Christmas. The committee is most interested now in obtaining funds. Be liberal.

AGENTS RAID SHANTY BOAT; ARREST THREE, SEIZE LIQUOR.

The arrest of John Gordon, Brent, Ky., on a commuter train by Detective William Tressler of the C. & O. Friday laid prohibition officers to raid a shanty boat moored on the Kentucky side of the Ohio River near Brent. Gordon had two half-pint bottles of moonshine whiskey in his pockets. He was placed in the Covington jail.

Armed with a search warrant, J. M. Wood, Elmer Correll and W. C. Hindleston, prohibition agents, went to Brent and found two men and a woman on the boat. They confiscated a quantity of moonshine whiskey, several bottles of prune brandy, a repeating rifle and a box of cartridges. They also destroyed a barrel of prune mash.

CLARA PHILLIPS THOUGHT CERTAIN TO BE IN MEXICO

Escaped Murderess Is Now Thought to Have Eluded Officials and Escaped Over National Boundary Into Mexico.

Los Angeles, Dec. 9.—Clara Phillips, only condemned murderess to break jail in the history of California, apparently had made good her escape today.

A hundred trails followed by authorities proved fruitless. "Tips" as to her whereabouts continued to pour in and were traced down, but authorities admitted Clara, probably, was not in this country.

Somewhere in Mexico the "bammer murderess" has run to "hole" in a hiding place arranged by those who aided in her escape, some officials believed.

Others advanced the theory that Clara was fleeing by motor or airplane to some Mexican port where her passage to a foreign country was arranged.

Madelyne O'neahain, Clara's friend who was released from prison on the day Clara made her spectacular escape, was questioned again today. Authorities said a dozen saws were found in the jail.

Clara has forfeited the right to an appeal, which was pending when she fled. If Clara is caught she will be sent immediately to San Quentin penitentiary.

MAYSVILLE NOT MADE CONCENTRATION POINT.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Federal prohibition officials announced today the conditional designation of ten whisky concentration warehouses in Kentucky, four of which are located in Louisville, three in Frankfort, two in Owensboro and one in Cynthiana.

The announcement follows statements to Congress that one-third of the country's whisky supply has been "concentrated in twenty-four central warehouses already selected. It shows, with one warehouse in Louisville already in operation, and with thirty warehouses the total contemplated for the entire country, that the larger part of the whisky supply will remain in Kentucky.

"GOOD OLD DAYS?"

Do you get impatient when you have to wait in a railroad station for a train that is late? And keep watching the bulletin board to see if the bad news, after all, may not prove to be a mistake? Nothing worse than waiting for a delayed train—unless it's waiting in a dentist's office.

An old-timer, reminiscing in the Wall Street Journal, tells of people who waited for trains 73 years ago in Chicago.

There was no telegraph there in those days. So John B. Turner, president of the old Galena and Chicago Union Railroad, had an observatory built on top of Chicago's first depot in 1849.

Turner had his office in the tower. Using a marine telescope, he watched through the window for incoming trains. The telescope enabled him to "spot" an approaching train as far as Austin, six miles away.

Then Turner would shout the glad news downstairs and the impatient travelers would sigh with relief and marvel at the benefits conferred on humanity by that great scientific achievement. "A telescope."

Today the location of approaching and departing passenger trains is known with precision, thanks to telegraph, telephone and radio.

You can look at the depot bulletin board and know whether a train, not due for hours, is on time or late.

Even better, you can telephone to the station, miles away. If the train is reported delayed, you wait in your comfortable home until time for the train, instead of in a dismal station.

Great strides! The everyday commonplace services which we take as a matter of course in modern times would have been magical luxuries back in 1849.

Somehow, though, the telegraph and telephone and radio appeal to us less than the quaint pictures of old man Turner in his tower, searching the railroad tracks with a small telescope.

People were not in such a hurry, back yonder. They took life as it came. And maybe they were happier.

The telegraph and telephone and radio had not been invented then, for they were not needed. As soon as the actual need arose, inventors provided them. In their way, they are marvels. But their major function seems to be to enable people to rush about faster, in a mad semi-stampede that seems to have neither goal nor meaning.

And sometimes we wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing for the world if it could undo a lot of its progress and slip back to the simpler "good old days." Maybe not. But old man Turner and his telescope certainly fire the imagination.

LEG-IRONS FOR BOOTLEGGER

Attorney General Daugherty is absolutely right when he says that effective enforcement of the prohibition laws depends upon the imposition of adequate penalties by the courts. He is probably not quite right when he intimates that requests by prosecuting officers for heavier penalties may bring about the desired result. Only a strong and self-assertive public opinion, backing up the President and the Attorney General will induce courts to impose punishment of a character certain to deter violations of the law.

It is notorious that bootleggers are now conducting the most profitable business going on anywhere in the United States. They do not mind paying fines, even if the fines are large. They can pay liberal fines and charge them up to overhead expenses, and still put in their bank accounts sums that would make a legitimate business green with envy. Fines accomplish absolutely nothing so far as enforcement of the prohibition laws are concerned. Stiff sentences to imprisonment is all that will bring the results the President and Mr. Daugherty so earnestly desire.

There is absolutely no excuse for the bootlegger in these days of industrial activity. Carpenters and bricklayers are in demand in the cities at $12 a day. Farmers are unable, in the active season of the year, to get help at wages they can afford to pay. The man unable to secure work to earn his bread may be excused if he resorts to petty theft; the bootlegger is not in that class. He deliberately plans and carries out law violation for the riches it will bring him. The maximum limit permitted by law should be his punishment.

Maysville has three of these organizations which are doing great work for the schools to which they are attached. Through these organizations the parents of the school children have opportunities to make suggestions to the school authorities and to see just how affairs are handled. Every school in Kentucky should have such an association of parents and teachers.

Our Daily Poem

THANATOPSIS.

To him who in the face of Nature holds Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings, with a mild
And healing sympathy that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware.
When thoughts
Of the last hour come like a blight
Over thy spirit, and sad images
Of the stern agony, and shroud, and pall,
And breathless darkness, and the narrow house,
Make thee to shudder, and grow sick
At heart—
Go forth, under the open sky, and list
To Nature's teachings, while from all around—
Earth and her waters, and the depths of air—
Comes a still voice—

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE STORY OF

THE GOOD SAMARITAN.

December 10.—Luke 10:25-37.

(By C. H. RAVEL.)

The parable, so called, of the good Samaritan was called forth by the sincere desire of a certain lawyer to understand the new way of life pointed out by Jesus. His way of asking Jesus the question of what he must do to inherit eternal life seems to have tempted Jesus. This lawyer had evidently studied the old ways with care, but was either not entirely satisfied with them, or he saw in Jesus a personality of spiritual insight a force capable of giving new light on an old subject. In either case Jesus' answer suggests in the first place his attitude toward progressive thought. He sent him back to the law. Progress was to be made by taking firm hold of some fundamentals given from the very beginning. The lawyer was familiar with the outwardness of these. But he halted at the interpretation of them; and in particular with the meaning of the term "neighbor." Here to his question might not have been apt for the term "neighbor" had a definite meaning the earlier days of simple life. But with the change of society it became vague. The lawyer could not be sure that he had obeyed it as strictly as he understood it. To justify himself before Jesus he asked for a definition of it. Jesus recites the familiar story.

It is easier, as some one has said to ask questions, than it is to answer them and this lawyer seems to be good at cross-questioning. If he was not entirely sincere. But he had more than his match in the person of our blessed Lord. The first question may have had reference to the "means" of securing eternal life. Christ lets the lawyer answer his own question by asking him to cite the answer given by the law. The lawyer very ably quoted from Deuteronomy and Leviticus, and Jesus commends his answer.

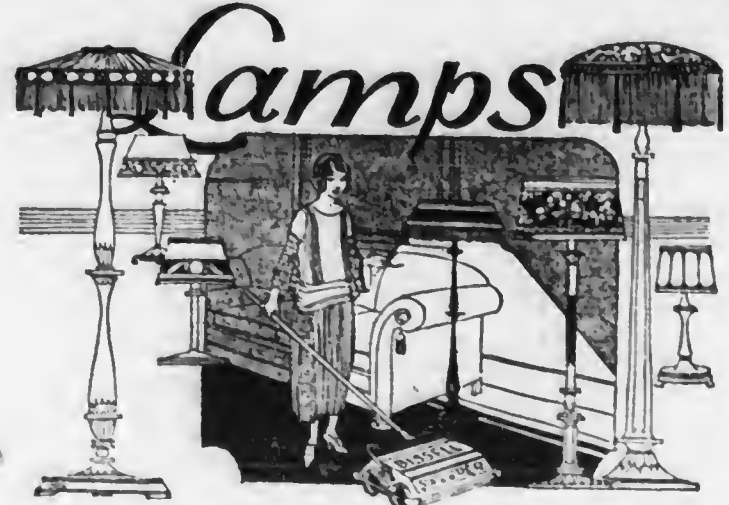

Now the lawyer would have the definition. This was a great question to put forth for it brings out in striking contrast the difference of meaning attached to the term "neighbor." The neighbor in Lev. 19:18 was the man across the street, if he were of the same blood and religion. The neighbor of Christ is any man who may be in trouble, though he lives on the other side of the globe. Whether he be unworthy and disagreeable he still is thy neighbor. Both of the types in the story are contradictory to the true idea of neighborliness. Both missed the spirit of the law. Contrast with the failure of the priest and the Levite to realize and illustrate the ideal neighbor Jesus pictured the Samaritan. Of course he did not mean that every Samaritan would act as the man in the story. Nor did he intimate that every priest would not act as the man in the story. Nor that all Levites would fall as the character he sketched.

Jesus disregarded the old bitter hatred between Jew, Samaritan and Levite. He impressed it upon his hearers that the relation of neighbor is not constituted either by kinship or by contiguity. It depends rather on the recognition of a common human nature with common human affections and needs.

"Which of these three thinkest thou became a neighbor unto him that fell among thieves?" In one sense all men are born neighbor to one another. But so far as they do not recognize this fact on a dare either gradually or suddenly awakened to its reality they become neighbors. We see in the whole story a picture of a man lying in sin and misery, whom neither the law nor the Levitical institutions could help.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING BURLEY FOR MARKET GIVEN Growers Urged To Take Plenty of Time in Stripping Their Tobacco and Grading It Before Deliv- ery to Association.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 8. — Instructions to members of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association in regard to the stripping and preparing of their tobacco for delivery have been approved by Director of Warehouses Ralph M. Barker of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association and will be sent to all members of the organization.

The instructions, in full, are as follows: "When your tobacco comes in case while hanging in the barn and you are ready to take it down, you will find that some of the tobacco is somewhat different, either in color, texture or size, and when ready to take it down, separate by sticks and this will be of great help to you when stripping as it will give you more time to strip the poor qualities and place them in their respective grades and in this way your grades will be uniform and even. "Take plenty of time to make a first-class job of stripping. You do not have to rush your head off to get your tobacco in the market a certain day, as the association grading and advance is one and the same every day in the season. Wait until your tobacco is in proper case before taking it down. We want to warn you against mixing grades on the same stick; always keep every grade on its own stick, never get the same grades (or families) mixed in the hand or bundle. The association has divided tobacco into seven grades (or families) as follows:

Grade A—Flyings or bottom ragged leaves.

Grade B—Trashies just above your flyings.

Grade C—Lugs or the trim bright solid tobacco from which cigarette wrappers are picked.

Grade D—Bright leaf for smoking or chewing and from which heavy wrappers are picked.

Grade E—Red leaf or chewing.

Grade F—Tips for smoking or chewing.

Grade G—Green.

"You want to know when you look at a leaf of tobacco to which grade or family it belongs. Be specially careful to keep all damaged tobacco to itself and all green to itself. The nearest you can possibly strip, tie and handle your tobacco, the more money it will bring. Tie your tobacco neatly in medium sized bundles and straighten out each hand as you place it on the stick and when the stick is placed in the bulk have a nice wide board with which to straighten out and press down smoothly.

"Always keep your bulk well covered to prevent drying, dust, etc. When you are ready to deliver your tobacco, go carefully through your bulk and lay out each grade to itself. Then load it on the wagon on the sticks, placing a marker between each grade.

"Should you have to ship in hogsheads, be careful to keep the tobacco straight and keep separate by planey of paper. Under no circumstances take tobacco off the stick to load it. It not only can be handled easier, but will look much better and will grade higher. Never take wet tobacco to the market. You can dry it much easier at home than at the delivering point.

"The sole object of the association is to help you make money out of your tobacco. Your co-operation in careful grading, neatly handling and delivering, will go a long way in helping to attain this object. If you desire any information, call on your grader at your delivering point and he will cheerfully give you same."

MANURE YIELD IN KENTUCKY WORTH MILLIONS TO FARMERS.

Lexington, Ky. — Kentucky has enough livestock on her farms to yield annually at least 10,000,000 tons of manure worth millions of dollars for building up farm lands, according to soils and crops specialists of the College of Agriculture. In view of the fact that Kentucky is a livestock state, this manure should be a big factor in keeping soils of the state rich. Half of this manure is produced in the winter when stock are on feed. It is at this time of the year that special effort to save the fertility in this material is needed.

"Half the fertilizing value of manure is in the liquid portion which may be easily and cheaply saved by using plenty of bedding. It has been estimated that by these one means alone, 2,000 tons of manure more than ordinarily would have been saved. The best farmers in the state now keep manure in stables or feeding sheds until it can be spread on the fields, instead of throwing it in piles outside where it leaches and heats and loses much of its fertilizing value. A well bedded and tramped stall will keep manure in good condition.

"Many farmers in the state now spread the manure on their farms as fast as it is hauled to the fields. The old practice of throwing the material in small piles to be spread later is expensive and wasteful. Most farmers use a light application to cover as many acres as possible. An application of five tons to the acre has been found to give good results.

"Most of the farm manure in Kentucky is used on tobacco or corn land. This makes it necessary to spread it as fast as it is produced in the winter or hold it until spring before spreading. On level land, and especially where there is a sod, winter spreading can be done with less loss. A few farmers make a practice of top dressing young grass and clover with manure. This helps considerably in getting and keeping a stand."

BREEDING EWES REPAV EXTRA GRAIN FED NOW

Lexington, Ky. — Starvation kills more breeding ewes in Kentucky during the winter than any other one cause, in the opinion of at least one prominent sheepman of the state. Many farmers in trying to be saving in their sheep feeding cut down on the feed they give their ewes during the winter with the result that, even if they do not die, they approach lambing time in a thin, weak condition, that makes them poor mothers. Successful sheep raisers and breeders have shown that good feed for the breeding ewe started at this time of the year and continued through the winter is always repaid.

"A handful of grain fed to the ewe in December or the month preceding lambing time is worth a peck fed to a thin ewe after lambing," L. J. Horlacher, in charge of sheep work at the College of Agriculture, says. "A ewe that is in good condition in the early part of the winter will be much stronger in the spring than one that starts the winter in poor flesh."

"Oats or a mixture of equal parts of oats and bran is a good grain mixture for the pregnant ewe. About a month before lambing time it is well to begin giving each ewe about one-fourth of a pound of grain a day. In case the weather is particularly severe, this can be increased gradually so that just before lambing the ewe is getting about a half pound of grain a day."

"If good grass is not available for pasture, little hay should be added to the ration. A good legume hay, such as clover, alfalfa, or soybeans is best. Timothy hay should not be fed to sheep since it does them very little good and the heads of it work into the wool, thereby lowering its market value."

"The main reason for having ewes in good condition at lambing time is the fact that the year take better care of their lambs than can thin, weak ewes. It does not pay to try to raise lambs from sick or weakly ewes. Good feeding will do much to eliminate this type from the flock."

SLEEPING CHILD CREMATED, GRANDMOTHER IS BURNED

Midway.—The three-year-old child of Zack Bell was burned to death in a fire which destroyed Bell's two-story home at Zion's Hill, a negro settlement. The child was asleep in a room of the second floor. The grandmother was seriously burned in trying to rescue child. It is believed that the fire originated when hot coal fell on the carpet from an open grate.

SALE OF MAYSVILLE REAL ESTATE

As heirs of Anna C. Day, deceased, we will, on SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1923, at 1:30 p. m. on the premises herein-after described, sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder the following described three parcels of real estate:

No. 1.—That house and lot located on the south side of Forest avenue, Maysville, Kentucky, and fronting 34 feet on Forest avenue and extending back 143 feet, more or less, and being the same property described in Deed Book 92, page 355, Records of the Clerk of the Mason County Court.

No. 2.—That certain parcel of real estate lying on the north side of Elizabeth street, and fronting thereon 33 feet and running back 105 feet, more or less, and being Lot No. 78 on the plat of Woodville, and improved with a double frame house.

No. 3.—That certain parcel of real estate fronting on Elizabeth street 33 feet and running back 105 feet, more or less, and adjoining the above property, and being lot No. 77 on the plat of Woodville, and improved with a dwelling house, and being the same property described in Deed Book 103, page 478, Records of the Clerk of the Mason County Court.

These two latter parcels of property earn a good rental income and should make a good investment for a purchaser.

TERMS:—This property will be sold on terms of one-third cash upon execution and delivery of deed, one-third in one year, and one-third in two years from date of deed, with note at 6% per annum, payable semi-annually, and then in the deed to secure its payment.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN MAN'S DISAPPEARANCE

Officials Think That Brown County Ohio, Man Is Safe and at Work In the West.

Georgetown, Ohio. — Nothing further developing in the disappearance of John Carter, colored, Sheriff Neu has come to the conclusion that Carter is some place employed and knows nothing of the search that has been made to locate him.

Sheriff Neu reaches this conclusion after a thorough search in the Pence neighborhood. Citizens there also share that opinion. They say that although Carter has been missing since last August, that he dropped back among the scenes of his earlier life without statement and that his departure was more than likely under the same conditions. They add that Carter was of industrious turn and upon leaving he had a sum of money. He is believed to have stopped wherever the prospects for employment suited him most, and without thought of funds he has in the Ripley Bank and in the hands of a former employer in Illinois, is engaged in his usual way.

INDICTMENTS IN PARSONS MURDER ARE RETURNED

Secret Investigation Into Cruel Murder of Mountain School Teacher Results in True Bills.

Harlan, Ky., Dec. 8.—An independent investigation by a former convict, begun while in prison and continued after his release, was given credit for the reopening of the Laura Parsons murder case today when the Harlan county grand jury returned indictments against three men charging them with the crime.

Miss Parsons, a teacher in the Pine Mountain settlement school was robbed and slain while traveling the trail from Dillon to the school in September, 1920. Those named in the indictments were:

John Marcum, in charge of the convict road camp near Dillon at the time of the murder.
Jerry Reed, negro, a member of the crew at the convict camp.
James Robinson, negro, also a member of the convict camp.

Robinson was tried on a charge of murder in connection with the crime and acquitted.

Credit for the reopening of the case was given today to the efforts of John Bramley, who was a prisoner in the Frankfort reformatory at the time of the murder.

He overheard conversations between other convicts that other investigators were not able to reach. He was in prison when Jerry Reed was sent back from the road camp. He declared he saw Reed sell the pocketbook carried by Miss Parsons to another convict. Eventually he obtained possession of it.

Meanwhile Dr. H. C. Winnes of Cincinnati, a veterinarian, who followed Miss Parsons over the trail from Dillon toward the school, was charged with the murder. He was tried and acquitted.

Bramley finished his sentence and going to Dillon started over the trail across Pine Mountain. It was his first trip over the Pine Mountain trail, but he was familiar with certain landmarks, through conversations he had heard while in the penitentiary.

He located a certain hollow gum tree. His quest was ended. From inside the tree he dislodged clothing, a two-piece suit of men's underwear—blood-stained—and the undershirt was marked in indelible ink with a number. A check on the prison records proved the number was that assigned to Jerry Reed.

The father and brother of the murdered teacher recognized the pocketbook the former convict had recovered.

A week ago a secret investigation was inaugurated by the Harlan county grand jury.
